ROBERT McINTYRE Chairman.

Whig Nomination for Congress.-Seventh

To the Whig and Independent Voters of the Seventh Congressional District-NINTH, SIXTEENTH and TWENTIETH WARDS.

FELLOW-CITIZENS: I have been tendered the nomination for Congress in this District, by those who believed that their political principles had been overslaughed, their wishes disregarded, and their rights, as freemen, violated by a mere majority of one in the Whig Nominating Convention of the VIIth District. After due deliberation, not unmixed with pain, caused by the imperative necessity which compels ples, and life-long course of the undersigned should be unreservedly given to those whose suffrages are invoked in his years. Political offices or distinctions have never been sought for by myself. When the Whig party had no schisms in its ranks, I had the honor to represent my Ward in either branch of the City Councils in 1834, 1837, 1835 and 1830. The latter year I was at Harrisburg as one of the Delegates to the National Convention from this city. I adhered there to my own heart and conscience, in sostaining HENRY CLAY from first to last. In 1843 I was elected to the Assembly and while there was nominated by the Whig party as their

For upward of thirty years I have been a voter in this city.

Consistently—fo the extent of my ability—with all my en-ergy, and to the utmost of my influence. I have earnestly and honeatly supported Whig principles, Whig measurea. Whig men, and Whig nominations. In this connection, every Whig nominee for Governor and for President has re-ceived my vote, notwithstanding that I never failed, even for a single hour, to mutain that beloved agricult and for the reverence his memory, and remain amenty attached to the immutable principles he so signally illustrated and vindicated?

An order of things—happily as yet but a moral and political plot—is likely to prevail, without the independent men, whose action has always been guided by principle, rise up and declare for themselves that they will no longer submit to present political management. If pervades every movement, from President-making down to the lowest office in the gift of the People. Again and again have our dearest rights, and every feeling and principle of our hearts, been violated by this false expression. Rufflanism, money and corruption, are the unholy adjuncts new relied on to procure nearly every nomination.

The present matter presents a spectacle which we are bound to view according to the facts, and then apply the home question whether we will submit to a decree, evidently corrupt, or as freemen assert the greatest of all privileges—resistance to threatened frund and violence.

In your Congressional Convention, conclusions are to be derived from facts. The candidates spoken of in the District were Hon. George Briggs, member of the present Congress, and Hon. H. J. Raymond, in the IXth Ward. In the IXth, XVItt and XXth Wards, I had been earnestly schicited by many persons to be a candidate. No man living can say I sought or solicited this distinction. Repeatedly I had declared that I would into case accept the nomination, except as the free expression of an unbought Convention; that I would not nyself, noreuffer any friend forme, to pay a single dollar to secure what would then be in truth an empty honor.

The IXth Ward Delegation were usanimously chosen.

I pon the introduction of MARSHALL O, ROBERTS S hames the entire IXth Ward delegation protested against his nomination under any circumstances.

They start d that the IXth Ward did not claim the nomination. They were willing and ready to give it to the XVIth Ward: but in no case could they choose this individual, and claimed a voice, if the candidate was to be named from their own Ward. The flat had gone forth. The original members of the Convention, as chosen, would never had accomplished this design. So others were substituted—enough just to do the deed, and thus the partner and associate of GRORGE LAW and FDWIN CROSWELL, was selected, and his name was MARSHALL O. ROBERTS.

I claim to be a Whig.—by my nature, by my experience, by my principles—in my heart and soul attached to that party, as it was created, for the public good, and piedged inviolably to sustain only measures and principles which would advance the nation in its onward career of glory and renown; while they ministered solely to advance the general interests and prosperity of the country and the people. Our people are a quiet, law-loving, order-shiding people. They have never needed "MARSHALL LAW" to be declared in their District

In my whole experience with public matters, I have never before known a Judge of one of our higher Courts to descend from the bench to mix in and be a prominent actor in partisan politics. It is the pride and security of our institutions to keep holy and sacred the judicial classactor. No one could have previously entertained a higher opinion of this Judge than myself. It is thought to be but a general expression, that the public at large regret the course he has pursued in this matter.

New, fellow-sitizens, I throw myself upon your kindness, and ask your support, as one who has never had any concealments about his political course, nor fearing now any investigation of his busines or private character.

It is the first time in my life I have ever so appealed. Personally, the office, if elected is in, has no allurements for me. If elected, I should sacrifice many personal interests; but the political character of our cherished principles—the hours and integrity of the men with whom, as a party, I have been associated consistently for thirty years, is to me above and beyond all other considerations.

My opponent has been chosen to represent the mammod corpeteration of steamships, of which he is the agent and principal owner. W batwer his address or declarations may state to the contrary, who will doubt the reason for his own and confederates anxiety to elect thin!

This is reason enough, but is there not a graver one? He was noticiously a main leader and supporter of John Tyler, after the treachery of his "Accidency" to the party that elected him, had proscribed the honest Clay Wings of this city, and of the country at large. It was equally notorious that he enjoyed the patronace of Tyler's and Polk's Administrations.

A great political party can never claim support for rivate or selfast reasons. I cannot, nor do I believe that you will that he enjoyed the patromage of Tyler's and Polk's Administrations.

A great political party can never claim support for private or selfish reasons. I cannot, nor do I believe that you will so vote, as to contradict the decorrine and principles for which the Whig party, as a national party, have always contended. In voting for a Member of Congress, we cast the only vote, except for President, where we can have any voice in the Government. This is our only direct vote, and we should all feel that our Lippessentative was our neighbor and friend. In behalf of those with whom I have so long labored for the establishment of vital principles, of those win have counted no sacrifice, so that their political action tended to advance and perpetuate the Union—consolidate the people of the States in the support of the Constitution, and maintain the supremacy of the statuce and all the laws of the Union, I protest against the insult offered, not only to the White party, of which I claim to be an exarces, altinough an humble member, but to every honest-principled man in the District, by thus asking them to abandon their rights and privileges, to make rampant the interests of adventurers and speculators upon the public Treasury. With great respect, I subscribe myself,

ROBERT SMITH.

Our Lesgue has been formed with the object of correcting some of the abuses of our City Government. The facilities with which candidates for office are raised to power by means of the corrupt machinery of primary elections, lies near the root of the evil. Against that system, therefore, we strike the first blow by agreeing to the principle that a good candidate ought to be supported, irrespective of the party by which be is nominated.

Open this principle is selection has been than which to some extent, it is our duty to explain.

Mr. WESTERVELIT has been preferred for the office of Mayor, for the reason, among others, that besides possessing a high personal character, nothing in his past history has thrown upon him any share of responsibility for the misconduct of the Common Council.

The Controller ought to be a man of unflinching firmness in the defense of the Treasury against the depresiations so often attempted upon it. We believe such a man, in that station, can save this city hundreds of thousands every year, and we think the past history of Mr. Fl.AGG has failly proved him to be the man we want. As Controller of the Scate of New-York through a period of years, his course was marked by a fidelity and vigor that commend him to the respect and confidence of the people.

The testimony has been that Mr. ADAMS, the present SUFERINTENDENT OF REFAIRS AND SUPPLIES, has generally administered his office well, and we have therefore adopted his name for that office now.

The Faculty of Medicine have with great unanimity agreed that the City Inspector ought to be a Physician, and with every Whig nominee for Governor and for Freedeath has feeles eleved my vote, notwithstanding that I never failed, even for a single hour, to sustain that beloved patriot and fearless statesman, Henny Clay, as long as he was before the people. We cherish now his principles, and the sublime teaching of his his and public services, as of mealculable value to the Republic.

Fellow-Chizens: Scarcely four mouths have elapsed since Henny Clay—full of years and of honors, having served his country finithally and unschisshly for more than half a century—passed through your midst to the grave, and you, in common with twenty-dive millions of people, mourned the irreparable loss to them of their greatest benefactor. Are we sticks and stones—men, destinite alike of heart, honor, truth, principle and courage—that before he has moldered in his glorious temis, while the whole world reveres in him the very incariation of an universal soil, that grasped in the vasiness of its benevolence and conception the interests of oppressed liberty and suffering humanity everywhere—that we will submit to the abasement in our votes of a repudiation of all his principles, and setting at nought his example, and the experience it inculcates, by any means of ours, support those who grew upon their treason to him while he lived, "and smiled and smiled while they stabbed!" The IXth Ward Delegation were unanimously chosen, and were clearly understood to be in favor of Mr. Raymond. Mr. Briggs having been confined assiduously to his duties in Contress, had, upon his return, gone immediately to Vermout, to join there his invalid family. He had consequently retired from an active canvase. In this contingency ha friends were joined to mine, and united in my favor. At the primary election in the XVIth and XXth Wards, various tickets were offered at the poins, at least two of which in each Ward were supposed to be composed of centiemen favorable to my nomination; and my friends supported those tickets were offered at they were voting to support their free choice.

After the election, a new candidate appeared in the field, and it was then, for the first time, stated that the XVIth and XXth Wards were, except two delegates, for Robert of CAMPBLI. Upon the assembling of the Convention, the two wards—XVIth and XXth—organized before the IXth Ward Delegates were admitted into the room, and they were permitted no voice in its deliberations, except to beliot—their intention, at the time, of honorably withdrawing their own eanithste, being thus thwarted, they expressed their willingness to support any candidate, who, from his personal character, pointed principles, and general integrity, could be rehed on to harmonize the District, and, if elected, faithfully and honestly carry out Whig priociples, and truly represent the great interests of this immense and rapidly growing city. It was understood at the time that this was a complimentary monination, and to be issuediately declined, and some voted in accordance with that idea.

The subscriber had good reason to believe Mr. CAMPBLL was held for two weeks and upward, to the manifest injury of the district. In the meantime Judge Woodkurff, who is understood to have been all the time in favor of his nomination, it is belie Being now fully ready for "the rush," we invite order from all parties, and pledge ourselves to do all we can for the benefit of our friends and patrons.
